

AHF MEMBER WINS SILVER PLATE AWARD

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

CONTACT:

Andrea Parr

502-574-9934

aparr@hqtrs.com

Louisville, KY (March 1, 2013) – AHF is proud to announce that member Angelo Mojica, director of nutrition & services/associate professor at UNC Hospitals/UNC Gillings School of Global Health, has been named the International Foodservice Manufacturers Association (IFMA) Silver Plate Award winner in the healthcare foodservice segment. The awards pay tribute to excellence by recognizing the most outstanding and innovative talents in nine segments of foodservice operations.

Each year, a distinguished jury of trade press editors and previous award winners weighs the merits of hundreds of candidates before selecting the executives who are honored with the Silver Plate Award. From among these nine, one is chosen by secret ballot to receive the industry's most coveted recognition, the IFMA Gold Plate. The winner of the prestigious Gold Plate Award will be announced May 20 in Chicago.

###

The Association for Healthcare Foodservice (AHF) is the national professional association dedicated to advancing self-operated healthcare foodservice as industry best practice. AHF develops healthcare foodservice professionals, assuring food and nutrition services are valued as an essential contributor to the healthcare organization's mission.